The International Sunday School Lessons for the Winter quarter (January-March) are based on the Gospel of John and pastors and Sunday school teachers are availing themselves of the most illuminating book on that Gospel to appear for a long time:

John Defends the Gospel

By Ernest Cadman Colwell

Assistant Professor of New Testament, University of Chicago

The endeavor used to be made to "harmonize" the Gospels. In this short, simply written but almost dramatically interesting book Professor Colwell has shown us that the Fourth Gospel cannot be harmonized, in the old sense, with the earlier Synoptics, because it was not written from the same point of view or with the same ends in mind. Each of the four Evangelists, indeed, had his own point of view, and wrote his Gospel to express his own message, using previous ones as they might serve his purpose.

The aim of the writer of the Fourth Gospel was to commend the new religion to classes in his community who had hitherto despised it: the intellectuals and the well-to-do. They despised the Jews—and Jesus was a Jew. They abhorred the practice of magic: and Jesus was said to have worked miracles. They looked down upon the lowly—and Jesus was said to have catered especially to the poor. They had no use for a criminal who was shamefully executed—and Jesus had died upon the cross.

John, therefore, wrote to show that Jesus was not a Jew, not even a man, but divine: he recommended him to the intellectuals by describing him in terms the philosophers were using. He reinterpreted the miraculous element in Jesus' ministry. He sought to show that Christianity was not a revolutionary movement. He retold the story of the last week of Jesus' life in such a way as to relieve the disgrace of the cross.

Here is a fresh, interesting and authoritative treatment of a very old subject. To every teacher, minister and Bible student the new book will prove of inestimable value.
